Sundberg seeks another term on board

MAD RIVER UNION

MCKINLEYVILLE – Ryan Sundberg officially kicked off his campaign for a third term as Fifth District supervisor during a gathering Monday night at Azalea Hall in McKinleyville.

Ryan Sundberg

Humboldt County's first Native American county supervisor, and one of only three in the State of California, said he would like to continue serving the residents of the sprawling Fifth District, which includes McKinleyville, Trinidad, Orick, Fieldbrook, Willow Creek and Hoopa.

On June 5, voters will choose between Sundberg and challenger Steven Madrone, who announced his candidacy in September. ("Madrone seeks Fifth District seat," Mad River Union, Sept. 6, 2017.)

Before being elected to his first term in 2010, Sundberg, 43, served on the Trinidad Rancheria Tribal Council and worked at the Sundberg Insurance Agency in Arcata.

One of Sundberg's political advantages is that he's well known in McKin-ARCATA – For years, Sun Valley Floral Farms has been asked whether they'd get into the cannabis cultivation business once the drug was legalized. The answer has been, consistently and adamantly: no.

That's still the case, despite what might seem like an ideal and highly profitable extension of the company's land assets and cultivation skills. "I don't see that happening," said Lane Devries, Sun Valley CEO. "That's not our intent."

But now, the Arcata Bottom-based flower company is laying the groundwork for a cannabis facility on the south side of its sprawling Bottoms complex – one it would sell when and if it is approved.

The purpose of the sale is to gather revenue to help sustain the flower operation. "Our goal is to provide jobs in the area as long as we possibly can," Devries said. "This would help make us more competitive."

An application for a Conditional Use Permit (CUP) and zoning amendment for an industrial cannabis facility has been prepared by a consultant and filed with the Humboldt County Planning Department by Arcata Land Company, LLC.

The company's principal is listed as Leendert Devries, CEO of Sun Valley Group, located in the former Simpson Timber mill building on Fos-

Coast Guard rescues Gerry B

U.S. COAST GUARD

MCKINLEYVILLE – The U.S. Coast Guard aided three fishermen in distress after the engine room on their vessel began flooding near Humboldt Bay on Saturday, Feb. 3.

A good Samaritan issued a mayday to Coast Guard Sector Humboldt Bay watchstanders via VHF-FM channel 16 around 10 a.m., reporting that the commercial fishing vessel Gerry B was taking on water and had no electrical power or communications eight miles south of the Humboldt jetties.

The fishermen were reportedly donning life jackets and preparing to abandon ship.

A Coast Guard Air Station Humboldt Bay MH-65 Dolphin helicopter crew was airborne on a training flight in the area and diverted to the scene. A Coast Guard Station Humboldt Bay 47-foot Motor Lifeboat crew also launched in response.

The Dolphin crew located the vessel and lowered a radio to establish communications. The crew then circled overhead and helped direct the Motor Lifeboat crew to the vessel through a fog bank.

The boat crew delivered a dewatering pump and transferred Coast Guard crewmembers onto the Gerry B to help dewater.

Search called off for fisherman

MAD RIVER UNION

HUMBOLDT – The U.S. Coast Guard suspended its search Sunday afternoon, Feb. 4 for crab fisherman Bryan Scott Moore, who fell overboard from the commercial fishing vessel Chief Joseph about eight miles west of the South Spit of Humboldt Bay early that morning.

Two crew members aboard the Chief Joseph were attending crab pots at about 1:10 a.m. Sunday when they both went overboard for some reason. When the captain of the vessel discovered his crew overboard, he was able to rescue one of the men, but Moore was nowhere to be seen. The rescued crew member received no injuries.

An MH-65 Dolphin helicopter crew from Air Station Humboldt Bay was first on scene at 1:50 a.m., followed by a 47-foot Motor Lifeboat crew from Station Humboldt Bay. A C-27 Spartan fixed-wing aircraft crew from Air Station Sacramento arrived an hour later, and the crews searched the area continuously until the case was suspended at approximately 1:15 p.m.

"It is with a heavy heart the Coast Guard makes the decision to suspend a search-and-rescue case," said Capt. Greg Fuller, the Sector Humboldt Bay commander. "We extend our deepest condolences to this man's loved ones and the entire fishing community."

North Coast Dungeness crabbing finally starts

Daniel Mintz

MAD RIVER UNION

HUMBOLDT – After waiting through a series of delays, the North Coast's commercial Dungeness crab fishermen soaked their pots last weekend and started pulling them. A $2.75 per pound ex-vessel or off-the-boat starting price was negotiated between fishermen and processors in Oregon. Crabbers in Oregon and Washington began fishing on Jan. 22.

But processors in Humboldt County/Crescent City area wanted to wait to allow crabs to increase their meat mass.

The season would have started on Dec. 1 had crabs shown a meat-shell ratio of 25 percent. Tests in early November showed crabs were far below the standard and subsequent results were also disappointing.

After a series of delayed openings due to the meat quality issue, the season was set to start on Jan. 15. That's the latest date the season can be delayed to.

Crabbing vessels remained docked, however. High ocean swells made fishing too risky and processors wanted to test crabs to get an idea of what kind of meat quality they'll be getting.

The tests showed that on average, sampled crabs were close to the 25 percent meat standard. As of press time on Feb. 5, Humboldt and Crescent City crabbers were set to start pulling their traps. Harrison Ibach, the president of the Humboldt Fishermen's Marketing Association said area fishermen are eager to start working.

"It's extremely strenuous for all fishermen to not be working for this long," he

Cannabis | Project one of 1,700 in the planning pipeline

ter Avenue, which Sun Valley acquired in the late 1990s. Arcata Land Company was set up then by Sun Valley to administer the property.

According to a company statement, when Prop 64, the Adult Use of Marijuana Act, passed in November 2016 making commercial cultivation legal, Sun Valley's Board of Directors unanimously approved moving forward with the CUP application and sale of the property.

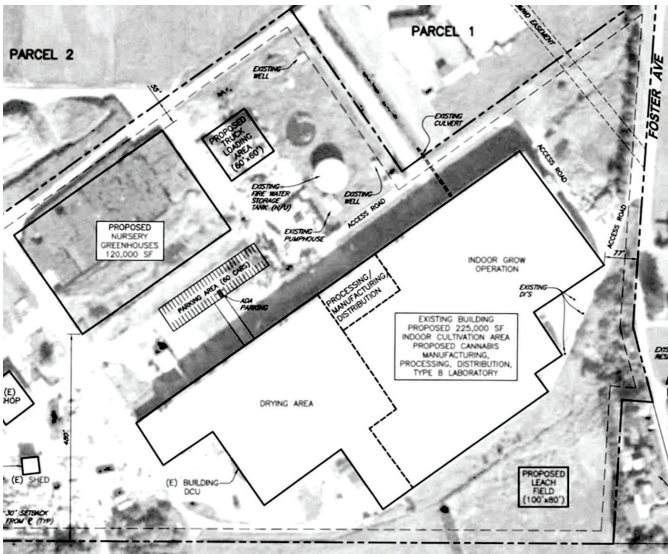

Sun Valley's main facility next door is not included in the permit application.

Devries said his company won't make any physical changes to the property; that would be up to the the next owner. Sun Valley would only satisfy the regulatory requirements, then sell the property.

The CUP app describes the project as as 225,150-square-foot indoor cultivation facility, a retail nursery and a manufacturing facility. It would draw water from an on-site well, with additional water storage for firefighting.

Some 37 to 96 employees would work at the site, growing, drying, trimming and curing the product. The applicant estimates that the facility would generate 102 to 228 vehicles trips per day on Foster Avenue, presumably including both employee vehicles and trucks there to pick up shipments.

The increased traffic would be added to that anticipated from Danco's planned Creekside Homes subdivision, also located on Foster Avenue to the east. Still in the planning stages, Creekside Homes would include a 32-lot subdivision, plus 25 cottages and a 100-bed residential care facility. Its principal entrance/exit is located on Foster Avenue.

FACTORY FLOOR The internal layout of the proposed cannabis facility. FROM ARCATA LAND CO. CUP APPLICATION

The CUP application states the cannabis facility's hours as 7 a.m. to 7 p.m., though the cultivation side would operate up to 16 hours per day and the manufacturing work could continue around the clock, "pending on demands."

An on-site wastewater treatment system would be in place. PG&E would provide electrical power.

The land is zoned Agricultural Exclusive/Prime and Non-prime lands (AE).

While the former Simpson mill appears from the outside to be multiple structures in close proximity, the interior consists of a single large open space.

A floor plan included in the CUP application indicates separate areas for different aspects of the facility: a large area for cultivation, manufacturing, processing, distribution and a laboratory; another large area for drying; and a smaller area for processing, manufacturing and distribution.

Separate areas outside the building are designated for a 120,000 square foot nursery greenhouse, parking, truck loading and a 100-by-80 foot leach field.

The requested CUP requires consideration by the county Planning Commission, but that won't occur any time soon. A staff report on the project will have to await responses from the many agencies to whom the project applications has been referred. Those referrals went out Jan. 24, with a 30-day response period.

Even then, the project will have to take its place in the queue of some 1,700 similar cannabis projects pending at the county level.

"It's not on our near-term horizon," said Bob Russell, deputy director of Planning and Building. Some 20 agencies have been referred the application, including the City of Arcata, Arcata Fire Protection District, the Pacific Union School District, various regulatory agencies, rancherias and others.

David Loya, Arcata's community development director, said the city is developing a response. Among other considerations, it will look at traffic impacts and how the project will impact Arcata's green belt policies.

The city has been trying to protect its western edge from excessive development, an initiative that gained momentum after Cypress Grove Chevre attempted to install a goat farm on the other side of Foster Avenue to the south back in 2011.

Ed Laidlaw, fire prevention specialist for Arcata Fire, said the size of the building and its operation are "a concern," but that the project offers an opportunity to bring the structure fully up to code. While it has a fire-suppression sprinkler system, Laidlaw said it's an old system that's not code-compliant.

Before it could be used for cannabis growing and manufacture, the old warehouse would have to be compliant with current building, fire, mechanical and electrical codes. That, Laidlaw said, would represent an improvement over the current situation.

"It's very significant for us because we can truly enforce these regulations before they turn the key and start this operation," he said. At that point, he said, "It's basically just another building."

Another positive, Laidlaw said, was the structure's relative isolation. Any fire that broke out would be unlikely to spread, as adjacent structures are few and far between. "From the fire side, that's a good thing," he said.

While a company statement stresses that Sun Valley "has no interest in entering the cannabis business," it is interested in selling off some non-productive assets to support the core operation.

"Management feels it is prudent to shed excess assets and to reinvest into the core business of growing and marketing flowers, in order to ensure the viability of the enterprise," states the company.

Having an approved cannabis facility would surely enhance the value of the old Simpson mill, making for a more lucrative sale.

Neighbors in Westwood have gotten wind of the project and are discussing it, but public facts, so far, are few.

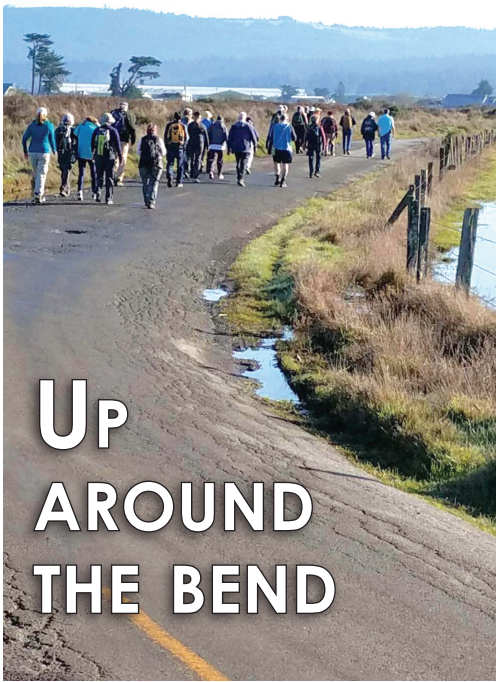

Devries said a rumor that a Japanese company has been enlisted to operate the facility is unfounded. "That's a new one," he said.

The company has been in discussions with several prospective buyers; some local, others from the Bay Area, Los Angeles and offshore.

Devries said the building is largely unused, with just a few small operations now utilizing the space.

Sun Valley maintains some coolers for bulb storage, while RVs are also stored there. A small mushroom wholesaler also occupies part of the building.

Pacific Union School did not immediately respond to a request for comment.

ter the vessel. Once the flooding was controlled, the Motor Lifeboat crew escorted the Gerry B to Woodley Island Marina in Eureka.

"Thanks to the help of a good Samaritan, our crews were able to assist these fishermen by air and by sea," said Capt. Greg Fuller, the Sector Humboldt Bay commander. "Other boaters can be the eyes and ears of the Coast Guard, so it's great to see the fishing community look out for each other."

The crew of the Gerry B was reportedly Dungeness crab fishing at the time of emergency.

The Coast Guard reminds commercial fishermen to ensure they have all appropriate lifesaving equipment aboard prior to getting underway. Safety requirements can be found at fishsafewest.info. For a list of additional safety suggestions, visit uscgboating.org.

Sundberg | Created McKMAC, finished GPU

leyville, which is the largest community in the Fifth District, with a population of more than 15,000, according to the last Census.

Sundberg grew up in McKinleyville and attended Dow’s Prairie School, McKinleyville High and graduated from Humboldt State with a degree in business administration.

A member of the Mad River Rotary Club, Sundberg has developed a reputation over the past eight years for providing constituent services such as helping residents deal with potholes, nuisance abatements, abandoned vehicles and trash pickups.

“I actually enjoy it,” said Sundberg in an interview last week. Moments before the interview, Sundberg was on Gwin Road in McKinleyville working with volunteers to fill in potholes.

The busy road, which serves several subdivisions and mobile home parks, is privately owned and was never brought into the county’s road system. Because the road is private property, the county cannot legally spend money making road repairs.

So in order to fill the gaping potholes, Sundberg organized a group of volunteers and donors to get the job done. Hooven and Company Inc., Mercer-Fraser, adjacent property owners and others descended on Gwin Road last Friday morning to fill the craters.

Sundberg said he is also working on a long-term fix for Gwin Road, which would be the creation of a road association. Property owners along the road would have to vote to tax themselves to pay for ongoing maintenance.

Sundberg said he receives a constant stream of requests to help solve such problems. He often obtains dumpsters to help with trash cleanups, and is called to neighborhoods to help move along the process of removing abandoned vehicles and other nuisances.

“Random things come up,” he said. “I have enough contacts now that I can make things happen.”

Sundberg said that among his accomplishments during his time in office is the approval of the Humboldt County General Plan Update, which the board OK’d late last year after a 17-year process. Sundberg noted that the plan has not faced a court challenge.

Another major accomplishment is the formation of the McKinleyville Municipal Advisory Committee (McKMAC), which gives the unincorporated community a voice in county matters.

The creation of the committee was called for in the McKinleyville Community Plan, approved by the Board of Supervisors in 2001. However, the committee wasn’t formed until 2012, two years into Sundberg’s first term.

Among the reasons cited for the delay in the committee’s formation, Sundberg said, was a lack of funding. But Sundberg pressed for its creation. “We did it for free,” Sundberg said. “I think it’s working pretty well.”

The committee also helped solve another problem that McKinleyville residents have complained about for years – the lack of law enforcement officers in town.

The McKMAC sought a solution to the deputy shortage and ultimately recommended that the County of Humboldt pursue a sales tax measure to fund public safety services. The county placed Measure Z on the ballot in 2014 and voters approved the half-cent sales tax increase.

The result is that McKinleyville has more deputies assigned to the Northern Command, which operates out of the Law Enforcement Facility at Pier-son Park.

“Now the Law Enforcement Facility in McKinleyville is fully staffed with a lieutenant, two sergeants, and 11 deputies, serving Northern Humboldt County and McKinleyville,” states a press release issued by the Sundberg announcing his campaign kickoff. “By the end of this year, the goal is to have 22 deputies when new deputies are hired. Before this, there were only two deputies serving the entire Northern Humboldt area who came out of Eureka.”

“They’re able to be proactive now,” Sundberg said about the deputies.

In almost every election for Fifth District supervisor, the issue of incorporation comes up. Why isn’t McKinleyville, the largest community in the district, a city?

At the recent State of McKinleyville meeting sponsored by the McKinleyville Chamber of Commerce, Sundberg explained that state law makes incorporation financially unfeasible. There is a requirement that when new cities form, they must be “revenue neutral” to the counties. So if McKinleyville were to become a city, it would not be allowed to take the tax revenues that the county now receives from the town.

Rather than focus on the unlikely possibility of incorporation, Sundberg said he would rather focus on improving services.

“If we’re not going to be a city, how do we make sure we have all the services that a city would have?” Sundberg said.

Sundberg noted that McKinleyville has a new fire station, a library and more deputies. The McKinleyville Community Services District, he said, has “great parks” and provides sewer, water and other services.

Thanks to Measure Z and the new state-wide gas tax, the county has more money than it has had for years to repair roads.

“With $10 million a year, we can really start making a big difference,” Sundberg said. “They’re going to see a lot of work done in McKinleyville.”

Another reason Sundberg wants to be reelected is so he can retain his seat on the California Coastal Commission, to which he was appointed last year by Gov. Jerry Brown.

Sundberg said he has forged relationships with the commissioners and has become better acquainted with the process.

Among the projects he looks forward to working on is the creation of a cannabis advisory committee to advise the board on all cannabis-related issues.

Crabbing | ‘pretty decent morale’

continued. “Any individual can relate to by thinking of how it would be for themselves to not have paychecks coming in over that extended period – it’s pretty brutal.”

This year’s season delay is minimal compared to the one crabbers dealt with two years ago, when the season was delayed by several months due to the presence of domoic acid.

After a severely limited salmon season, fishermen are counting on this year’s Dungeness fishing and were docked during the Christmas period when the domestic market peaks.

Another season milestone is imminent, however – the Chinese New Year on Feb. 15, which drives what Ibach described as a “very strong” market for exports of live crab to Asia.

Area processors will also be buying to supply the cooked crab market.

“Everyone is excited and very much looking forward to finally getting going,” Ibach said. “There seems to be pretty decent morale from what I’ve seen.”

Consumers have also been waiting. “There has been some crab on the market that has come from Oregon but we’ll finally be seeing nice, fresh local crab in the local markets,” said Ibach.

He noted that the last area of the West Coast that remained closed to crabbating – from the Port Orford, Oregon area to the California border – has tested clear of domoic acid.

With that, commercial fishermen throughout the entire West Coast are actively crabbing.

The agreed-upon $2.75 per pound price less than last year’s price of $2.87 but it’s only a starting price. And Ibach said there’s already been price increases for the crab from Oregon and Washington, with $3.25 to $3.50 per pound being paid for crab going to the live market.

PUBLIC SAFETY

'Scuse me, while I punch the sky

• Saturday, January 13 8:42 p.m. A man at the centroid for rude rumbustiousness – the bench at Ninth and H streets – chose from a well-established menu of jiggery-pokery the actions he might inflict on Arcata’s long-suffering innocent passersby. Some sort of primitive effort-reward calculation drove him to that most low-effort/high-impact of tactics – yelling. Police couldn’t find him among the herds of howlers prowling about there.

• Sunday, January 14 1:51 a.m. A tawdry melee at Ninth and H involved five brutes brawling in the street, one of whom waved a cane or stick by way of planetary betterment. Someone was arrested for public drunkenness.

6:29 a.m. Where once their marriage was embroidered with tender kisses, warmth and whimsy, it was now marked by him kicking at her trailer front door while barking out threats.

10:27 a.m. A man brought to the hospital ER declined physician attention, choosing instead a unique form of self-treatment – lingering near doctors’ offices and trying doors.

12:03 p.m. A motorhome parked in Todd Court for several weeks was left bleeding sewage with its door hanging open, its sole occupant a sharps container full of needles.

12:19 p.m. A man set his wallet on the roof of his car during a fill-up at a J Street gas station for a sec, then forgot about it and drove away.

• Monday, January 15 8:53 a.m. A man parked on the Plaza beheld the hostile antics of a woman in a gray tank top who yelled at him through his window, struck the window and his mirror, then sat on the truck and told him he couldn’t leave. She then proceeded to the middle of the Plaza for a bout of yelling.

9:02 a.m. A woman in a gray tank top grabbed a bottle of alcohol from an I Street store and scampered away.

• Tuesday, January 16 12:51 a.m. Multiple practitioners of the yelling arts – at least one of them arrestably drunk – howled about on 11th Street.

10:33 a.m. A two-burrito thief and his backpack are no longer welcome at a 13th Street store.

11:38 a.m. A man with unknown issues chose different forms of retribution for the entirely blameless people and objects – including Earth’s long-suffering atmosphere – which he encountered near 14th and F streets. The innocent passersby were lashed with shouted profanities, while street signs and the very air itself sustained merciless punches from his mighty fists.

12:20 p.m. As two sweatshirt-wearing men in the 14th Street Redwood Park lot know, nature is best appreciated by flinging knives at a tree.

12:27 p.m. The wafting aromas of fabric softener, the whirring of washers and dryers and the warmth they imparted all added up to ideal napping conditions for a non-customer at a G Street laundromat. He didn’t respond to attempts at a wake-up, but seemed to be breathing. Police warned him away.

1:05 p.m. A woman at Seventh and I streets offered a value-added yelling demonstration, augmenting her passerby-revilings with rearrangement of the multiple markers at the PG&E road sign museum there.

4:58 p.m. A Third Street resident complained of an invading rooster, which both crows loudly and brazenly climbs up her tree.

• Wednesday, January 17 10:26 a.m. A yellingman on F Street wore a camouflage hat, so his blurry bleats appeared to be emanating from a writhing face-hole with no scalp mounted atop a faded blue sweatshirt.

1:44 p.m. A barefoot man entered a Valley West burglary and initiated an argument with the wage-slaves there, refusing to leave. He then moderated his intransigent stance somewhat, go away as requested but only in the company of a stolen chocolate cake.

2:46 p.m. A malcontent, one unfortunately equipped with a mouth and lungs found something in Stewart Park that provoked a stream of yelled profanity.

4:03 p.m. A man bedazzled passersby near a downtown hardware store with his red beard, blue blanket and halitosis-borne screams.

7:12 p.m. A Q Street resident asked for help removing a gull trapped on his garage.

9:51 p.m. A man positioned at the entrance to a Uniontown store had a bifurcated mission, the two central pillars of which were nonetheless complimentary – verbal aggression against patrons and the mandatory yelled obscenities.

• Thursday, January 18 12:15 a.m. An ambulance was summoned to 11th and H streets for a person with swollen legs.

12:33 p.m. A man attempting to assist an injured bird on the Humboldt Bay Trail North at the Arcata Marsh & Wildlife Sanctuary had to deal with the inevitable unleashed dog with herding propensities, this one in the company of two women. The bird ally was afraid that the dog would meddle in his avian rescue efforts.

PIPED UP The city last week replaced a section of sewer pipe at Samoa Boulevard, allowing PG&E to proceed with relocation of a gas line there. According to a PG&E spokesperson, crews expect to be done within the next two weeks, depending on weather. Once the pipeline is complete and back in service, restoration of the road will begin. That includes restoration crews re-filling the excavation point, repaving the road and concrete portions of the sidewalks and curbs, and is expected to take about two weeks. Meanwhile at Seventh and I streets where the forest of traffic diversion signs has been in place since November, PG&E re-engineered a new plan to safely move a gas pipeline under the culvert in the area. Work on that began Monday and should be complete by the end of March. The second project at Seventh and I streets, removing an out-of-service valve, will happen in concurrence with the work starting on Monday and will be completed the same time. CITY OF ARCATA PHOTO

❖ THE BACHELOR Missing in plain sight

MAD RIVER UNION

HUMBOLDT – In order to find a woman who was reported missing in Humboldt County late last year, all investigators needed to do was tune in to the ABC television show The Bachelor.

Rebekah Martinez, reported missing by her mother on Nov. 18, 2017, is doing just fine and is starring in the current season of the hit television show.

The mixup was detailed in a press release issued last week by the Humboldt County Sheriff’s Office:

On Nov 18, 2017, at about 1:06 a.m., the Humboldt County Sheriff’s Office received a missing persons report for 22-year-old Rebekah Martinez. The reporting party, Martinez’s mother, told deputies she last had contact with Martinez on Nov. 12, 2017, at about 11 a.m. via a friend’s cell phone. Martinez told her mother that she was going to work on a marijuana farm and would see her in seven to eight days.

The Humboldt County Sheriff’s Office attempted to contact Martinez and other persons associated with her, receiving no response.

The deputy followed procedure, following up on all leads and forwarded the case to the Humboldt County Sheriff’s Office Criminal Investigations Division.

On Dec. 12, 2017, a deputy sheriff contacted Martinez’s mother by email to inquire whether she had heard from Martinez. Martinez’s mother responded to the email confirming that Martinez had contacted her late in the afternoon on Nov. 18, 2017, and stated that she was headed home.

The deputy requested Martinez to contact the investigator of the case as soon as possible.

As part of procedure, Humboldt County Sheriff’s Office deputies are typically required to make direct contact with the missing person to confirm status and well-being, as geographical and other factors allow. A deputy was not able to make direct contact with Martinez and she was not removed from the Missing and Unidentified Persons System.

On Feb. 1, 2018, the Humboldt County Sheriff’s Office received an inquiry from a local resident in response to a news article [in the North Coast Journal] about missing persons in Humboldt County.

The resident reported that one missing person listed on the California Attorney General’s missing persons website was actually on the television show, The Bachelor.

The deputy who initially took Martinez’s missing person report attempted to contact Martinez by phone, without answer. The deputy left a message for Martinez directing her to contact the Humboldt County Sheriff’s Office as soon as possible.

The deputy then reached out to Martinez’s mother as to why Martinez had not contacted the Sheriff’s Office as requested in December.

The deputy was informed that Martinez had attempted to contact the Sheriff’s Office but was not able to speak directly with a deputy. At this time, Martinez’s attempts to contact the Sheriff’s Office have not been confirmed.

The deputy provided Martinez’s mother with her direct phone number and requested Martinez call the deputy immediately. Martinez returned the deputy’s call at 2:59 p.m. on Feb. 1, 2018, confirming that she was not missing and was doing well.

Based on the totality of information provided regarding Martinez’s wellbeing, Martinez’s status as a missing person was cleared over the phone and she was removed from the Missing and Unidentified Persons System.

NOT MISSING Top, a missing person photo for Rebekah Martinez, who said she was coming to Humboldt to work in the cannabis biz. Instead, she was on The Bachelor, with a transformed look as shown in this glamour shot.

Where are all the worker bees?

I spent my working life as a worker bee. I always had a job, for over 45 years, and never worried about a career. I wanted to spend my free time with family and friends doing things that interested me and not worrying about what was going on in the office. I am the descendent of five generations of labor union workers. We are the people who do the office work, drive the trucks, dig the ditches, plant and harvest the food, and generally keep civilization humming along. I learned to work when I was young. My step-father was a building inspector and plumbing and heating contractor. My mother worked as a freight forwarding clerk, so Saturdays were dedicated to housework, grocery shopping and laundry. By the time I was 12 I could swing a 22oz hammer and enjoyed working construction with my cousins and step-father. All of my parents, my Dad included, expected me to help them produce the life they wanted us to have. My cousins and I worked 15-hour days on our summer vacations. We all grew up to be contributing members of society. In 1997 my cousin Bill and I were sitting in my mother's backyard on a 12-foot floating bench we had just built under a shade tree. Even after more than 30 years the two of us got together to work on projects. We were musing on getting older and dreading the time when we would have to hire people to do work for us. We knew it would be hard and we were steeling ourselves into letting go of the work ethic and perfection we were taught as children. Even at 70, my cousin still does most of his own construction work around the house only hiring people for roofing or heavy work. Hiring people has become a problem. I hate to sound like an old codger, but where are all the worker bees? I have been living in Humboldt county for nearly four years and I have a terrible time finding someone to help with my projects. I am not expecting much, I pay cash and provide lunch. I need people who are strong, are able to communicate and show up ready to work. Once I find someone to help they either don't show up or call at the last minute to beg off. I am usually needing help moving or lifting things. I still know how to do plumbing, carpentry, flooring, painting... I just need some muscle. I am good at what I do and able to teach skills to anyone who wants to learn, the problem is I cannot find a worker bee. What have we done to our children? Why don't they want to work? What will become of them when we are gone? Homes will still need to be built; crops will still need to be planted and harvested; cows will still need to be fed and milked; cars, trucks, harvesters will need to be serviced. These are just the skills that sustain life, what about the skills that produce art and literature. None of these things can be done by computers. Despite what you think good skills cannot be taught with You-tube videos. Shut off the TVs, computers and phones. Take your children and teach them a life skill. Bring shop and auto classes back to our schools. Bring back technical schools so that the skills that sustain us will be there in the future. We now have two generations of American children who lack the skills to survive; and a new generation is being born as we speak. Go out and turn a child into a Worker Bee. You will thank me later. A McKinley alternative and the Civic Club take on the lighthouse

Replace McKinley with Mary

May I suggest a statue for the Plaza that is far removed from President McKinley. Consider Mary, the Jewish mother to Jesus of Nazareth. She stands as a statement to women's empowerment and a statement for peace and non-violence.

About the Memorial lighthouse

The Trinidad Civic Club wishes to thank the many people in our community who came together to peacefully resolve the complex and challenging problem of relocating the Trinidad Memorial Lighthouse. The Civic Club believed that issuing a press release earlier might compromise the sensitive negotiations undertaken to find a solution. There are many misperceptions about what happened, in part caused by erroneous information in the press and on social media.

The Club first met with the Yurok Tribal Council when invited to a meeting on Jan. 3, 2018, eight days after the occupation of the Lighthouse began and was never included in any "consultations" with the Tribe, which reportedly began in December 2016. The Lighthouse never slipped, as claimed, beginning in December 2016. The Club paid several thousands of dollars for engineering and geologic studies, including the installation of scientific instruments to measure movement.

The intentions of the Civic Club were to preserve the Lighthouse and protect the Tsurai Study Area, a designated 12.5 acres of the ancestral lands of the Tsurai Village, taking proactive measures to prevent the Lighthouse from sliding. The Civic Club has no knowledge or evidence of any graves on its property.

Coastal erosion is the primary reason the Club moved the Lighthouse. There was no official offer of a viable alternative site until Friday, January 5th, when the Cherae Heights Indian Community of the Trinidad Rancheria extended a written offer to temporarily relocate the Lighthouse on their harbor property. The Lighthouse was moved Jan. 10th.

The Memorial Lighthouse is not just a "replica." It is a monument dedicated to the memory of those lost or buried at sea and part of a memorial site since 1949. Family members often visit the site, some leaving flowers below names of loved ones, at the door of the Lighthouse or on the Lighthouse itself.

Since 1995, the Club has organized a Memorial Day weekend service for the families of those commemorated. In 2017, the names of the 238 people were read aloud. Among those are 23 fisherman, Coast Guardsmen and pilots whose sacrifice is honored with the American flag flown at the site: "To those who perished at sea. They will live forever in our hearts." The Lighthouse is equivalent to a gravestone, since no physical graves exist for those commemorated, including the name of Louise Lindgren Little. Louise was part of the Lindgren family whose descendants are now called, "The Tsurai Ancestral Society."

The Trinidad Civic Club members became aware of the threat to the Lighthouse mid year, later hearing detailed information at the July 26, 2017 City Council meeting when Gary Simpson, an engineer with SHN hired by the City, presented a study on the slide affecting City property. Subsequently, the Civic Club retained SHN.

There was a meeting on Aug. 8, 2017 of the Tsurai Study Area Management Team to which the Civic Club requested an invitation, but was excluded. The Civic Club held a meeting on Sept. 20 to seek input and guidance to determine the fate of the Trinidad Memorial Lighthouse. Those invited included City and Coastal Commission representatives, SHN engineers, Fifth District Supervisor Ryan Sundberg and the Tsurai Ancestral Society. Yurok Tribe cultural representative Frankie Myers attended. No solutions or alternate sites were offered by anyone other than options devised by SHN. The option to stabilize the Lighthouse in place was rejected by the Coastal Commission representative.

The Tsurai Ancestral Society ("TAS") declined to attend this meeting, citing their 2012 appeal to the Coastal Commission, which has languished for over 5 years. In 2012, the Civic Club began an improvement project on their property after consultation with TAS to remove the fence that blocked direct access to the Axel Lindgren Jr. Trail, though there was access through adjacent City property. Through poor communication, erroneous information from the City that no permits were required and misunderstandings among hired professionals with those Civic Club members trying to carry out the project, mistakes were made. Private and public apologies were offered repeatedly to TAS, with the Club attempting to make amends. TAS filed the appeal and to date the Club has still not been told what remedies might be made, leaving this unfortunate incident unresolved.

In trying to find a solution to the Lighthouse threat, SHN recommended that the Lighthouse be moved before the coming winter rains. Constrained by a limited amount of money, a very short timeline and no alternative site options, the Club followed SHN's advice and applied for an emergency permit to move the lighthouse to more stable land approximately 20 feet east and still on the Club's property. The engineers designed the plan to have the least invasive impact on the site. Other alternative locations were investigated, but none proved viable due to the urgency of the situation, financial and logistical constraints, such as permits.

The emergency permit defined the planned move as "temporary" and required application for a Coastal Development Permit upon completion, which could be appealed. The Club followed every legal requirement. A cultural monitor was on site during construction at all times. A permanent location will require another Coastal Development permit, a process that could take up to 5 years.

The Trinidad Civic Club is a small, non-profit community service organization founded in 1913. In the past, major fundraisers were bake and rummage sales to fund our stewardship of the Memorial Lighthouse, academic and trade scholarships, support for CASA (Court Appointed Special Advocates for foster kids) and sponsorship of the Blood Bank mobile unit, among other projects. The Club helped establish the Trinidad Library in 1915 and contributed to the construction of Town Hall in 1917. Numerous other community development projects enjoyed the support of the Civic Club, including the fire department, a commercial kitchen in the Town Hall, Trinidad's library, school, museum, cemetery and the Trinidad Coastal Land Trust, to name some of the most significant contributions.

The Club's mission statement embodies its beliefs in serving the community over the past 105 years: "...devoted to civic improvement, stewardship of the Memorial Lighthouse, child welfare, education and the promotion of harmonious community spirit." The Club's intention to preserve the historic Lighthouse and protect the Tsurai Study Area became a community crisis that could have been avoided if direct communication with all stakeholders had been possible and facts about the Lighthouse had been available to those concerned. Actions taken on incorrect assumptions and untruths that inflamed the situation were unfortunate.

On Jan. 4, during negotiations with the Yurok Tribal Council, Civic Club leadership, and the Trinidad Rancheria Tribal Council, a Memorandum of Understanding was created stating that all parties involved would be partners in the relocation of the Lighthouse and the development of a permanent memorial site. Yurok Tribal Chairman Thomas O'Rourke, Sr. and Trinidad Rancheria Vice Chair Zackary Brown pledged to participate with the Civic Club in a new year of collaboration and mutual respect. TAS was invited to the meeting, recognized as a stakeholder and included in the agreement, but declined to attend. Besides moving the Lighthouse to the Trinidad Rancheria harbor land, provisions of the MOU with the stakeholders included the Yurok Tribe ending the occupation and clearing the construction zone. On Jan. 7, 2018, three stakeholders officially signed the document. The Tsurai Ancestral Society declined to sign. The occupation ended. Without the generous offer of the Trinidad Rancheria of a temporary location for the Lighthouse, this difficult situation had no peaceful resolution. They are the heroes and deserve recognition for their role. The Club is encouraged and optimistic that they have found reliable and committed partners to preserve one of Humboldt County's most historic landmarks. The Club is moving forward by planning a forum for community input to the Site Selection Advisory Committee on Feb. 27 at 6 p.m. in the Trinidad Town Hall. The Committee is comprised of liaisons from the Yurok Tribe, the Civic Club and the Trinidad Rancheria. Substantial financial support from the community is needed to build a permanent memorial site. The Trinidad Civic Club is committed to fulfilling its responsibility and obligation to honor the memory of loved ones lost or buried at sea for past and future generations to come. Legion wants family members to join auxiliaries

New sink for canteen

Kevin L. Hoover
MAD RIVER UNION
ARCATA – With a unique fusion of crisp military precision and what locals are well familiar with as “Arcata time,” American Legion Post 274’s monthly meeting got underway at the crack of 6:05 p.m. last Friday night.

AMERICAN LEGION POST 274 REPORT

Legion meetings at the Arcata Veterans Memorial Building have taken place the first Friday of each month since 1922. Twenty-five legionnaires attended; two were female. The demographic was roughly split between younger veterans in their twenties and thirties, and longtime members in their sixties or better, reflecting a long period during which Arcata’s legion post wasn’t aggressively recruiting new members.

The first order of business was to receive a report by McKinleyville High School senior Jacob Smith on his recent attendance at the Legion’s Boys State conference in Sacramento. Boys State is a program in which sponsored high school students become part of the operation of local, county and state government.

In an often humorous report, Smith told of his experience as one of 57 young men from around California at the Boys State 2017 gathering in Sacramento. Smith said it had been “the most informative meeting of my life,” one in which he arrived as an uncertain novice and left as a “Boys State master.”

Smith said he presently has no political aspirations, but was asked to remember the folks back home if he ever does attain public office.

The monthly treasurer’s report indicated nominal positive balances in the post’s accounts, and included news of one expenditure – a $700 sink unit for the newly refurbished canteen on the ground floor, now known as the Whiskey Locker.

LEGION LINEUP American Legion Post 274 Chaplain Leonard Shumar, former Commander and Boys State Chairman Al Toste, McKinleyville High School senior and Boys State Graduate Jacob Smith, Post 274 Commander Jeff Sterling and Judge Advocate Heather Kilgore. KLH | UNION

T-shirts with military logos are being collected for creation of a new quilt to be auctioned off for fundraising. The post is looking for an able quiltmaker to make the quilt once enough shirts are available. It will pay a nominal fee for the service.

Legionnaire Phillip Nicklas offered a report on the monthly swing dances. A recent dance was attended by 30 people; however, 10 of those were band members. A house band is being assembled to perform at the dances, which occur on the fourth Friday and are free to post members.

James Lamping of the Humboldt State Veterans reported that his group will be the beneficiary of the March 7 Pints for Non-Profits at Redwood Curtain Brewing Co. One dollar from each purchased pint that day will go to the campus vets.

Arcata Veterans Group Auxiliary President Sophia D. Bogner has initiated a new Community Cleanup Project, which undertakes its first mission this Saturday (see below).

Sterling and Veteran of Foreign Wars Commander Phil Irvine, now recovered from a recent car accident, will attend meetings of the Humboldt County Veterans Council for the American Legion and District 14 VFW in Ferndale on Feb. 17.

Sterling is trying to revive the Vets Hall’s auxiliary organizations, even as he attempts to overhaul their legacy sexist structure. These groups consist of spouses and offspring of Legion members, but not enough are stepping forward.

The Sons of the American Legion has just three participants so far; 10 are needed. The Women’s Auxiliary is also lacking in members. Sterling said the auxiliaries are needed in order to revive the hall’s Sunday brunches.

“Let’s get some more family involved,” Sterling asked.

American Legion Post 274 next meets Friday, March 7 at 6 p.m.

Vets Aux starts cleanup effort

MAD RIVER UNION
ARCATA – Further extending its community service and outreach, the Arcata’s Veterans Group is undertaking regular volunteer cleanup days.

Sophia D. Bogner, president of the Legion Auxiliary and a Humboldt State Environmental Science major, must conduct community service via an internship as a graduation requirement. With the Vets Hall as her service learning site, she’s putting together the cleanup drive.

“Myself along with volunteers will clean up part of the Arcata community from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. every other Saturday,” Bogner said. Dates scheduled so far are this Saturday, Feb. 10; Feb. 24; March 10; March 24; April 7; April 21; and May 5.

Cleanup sites include Jolly Giant Creek along Alliance Road; Arcata Community Forest trails and the Kevin Ebbert Memorial section of U.S. Highway 101. Bring water and wear boots; meet at the Vets Hall, 1425 J St.

BUYING A HOME? DON'T DO THIS!

As soon as you apply for a home mortgage loan, you have placed yourself under scrutiny. Your personal finances, job history, credit rating, assets and liabilities will be reviewed and discussed by professionals who will decide whether or not your loan package should be approved. If you want the loan, avoid the following home purchase pitfalls.

Don't quit your job. Lenders look for a two-year track record of stable employment, so if you plan to start your own business, do so after you buy the home.

Don't change employers unless you will be working at a similar job and earning more income. For example, its acceptable for a public school teacher to change school districts or move to another position with a higher salary.

Don't buy a brand new car, new home furnishings or a diamond bracelet for a loved one's birthday. Financing any kind of major purchase that increases your debt-to-income ratio is like waving a red flag in front of the mortgage underwriter.

Don't co-sign on a loan for another party. That debt is counted as yours.

Finally, don't move money from one account to another without a documented paper trail for the lender to follow.

For professional advice on all aspects of buying or selling real estate, call Joanie Frederick, Broker, Azalea Realty, (707) 362-0144, or check out our website at www.azalearealty.com.

Bringing jazz back to Humboldt

Janine Volkmar

MAD RIVER UNION

WESTHAVEN – Dr. Jerry Moore was a fixture on the jazz scene in our county for decades. From 1955 to 1995 he taught music, built a large jazz ensemble, and encouraged countless musicians to build their own careers, including his sons Gregg and Michael.

He retired to Sonoma County but hasn't stopped performing. He and versatile jazz singer Doug Arrington have worked together there to bring music to thousands of public school children.

Now he and Arrington are bringing it home to Westhaven Center for the Arts on Saturday, Feb.17 at 7:30 p.m.

And it's a homecoming in more ways than one. Moore's father moved his family from Mineral, Calif., the headquarters of Mount Lassen Park, to Moonstone Heights in 1947 because as Moore tells the story, "he had always wanted to live near the ocean."

Moore's son, Gregg, an Arcata resident and well-known musician in his own right, told an apocryphal story about his dad surfing Moonstone Beach with "solid redwood longboards" but in a recent telephone interview Jerry Moore pooh-poohed that story as "embarrassing."

"As a brand new resident I tried

New adventures in sunny BL

Sunny. Friendly. Whimsical. Fun. These are all adjectives that describe the City of Blue Lake, and I am so proud to call Blue Lake my home. As we move through the seasons, new adventures are just around the corner for our little town.

Blue Lake Chamber of Commerce

The Blue Lake Chamber of Commerce is gearing up for a new year, with more exciting activities than ever before. In January, the chamber elected new officers: Marvin Samuels, president; Ron Sharp, vice president; Nathan Sailor, treasurer; and Mariel Morison, secretary.

Other board members at large are: Mandi Kindred, Barbara Jewell and Al Clark. This fantastic group of people support businesses in the city and also works closely with city officials and the City of Blue Lake Economic Development Commission. The chamber meets on the second Monday of each month at 5:30 p.m. at the Mad River Taproom, and all those who are interested in participating, businesses and residents, are invited to attend.

Mad River Grange Breakfast

Don't forget the Mad River Grange Breakfast on Sunday, Feb. 11 from 8 to 11 a.m. Every month there is a special; we don't exactly know what it is until the day comes, but we know it's going to be good. Some suggested specials that are possibilities are biscuits and gravy, breakfast sandwiches, and breakfast burritos. Whether you get the special, or the regular Pancake meal, it's sure to be a moment filled with friends, laughter and fun.

Blue Lake School basketball

Basketball is in full swing at Blue Lake Union Elementary School. The school has a boys Junior Varsity (5th and 6th grades) and a Varsity (7th and 8th grades) teams that play every Tuesday and Thursday, sometimes at home, and other times in various locations like Willow Creek (Trinity Valley), Freshwater, Eureka, Fieldbrook and Trinidad. The school will be hosting a JV tournament on Feb. 9-10. There is a small fee to attend games, and a snack bar available.

That's all for now. May you have a chance to visit our special town soon.

THE HEARTS TOGETHER AUCTION will be held at the Humboldt Unitarian Universalist Fellowship (HUUF) at 24 Fellowship Way in Bayside on Saturday, Feb. 10, from 4 to 8 p.m. A $10 entry donation gets you: Silent and Live Auction, Warm Your Hearts soup bar with homemade bread and elegant valentine desserts! A no host wine and beer bar is planned. There will be a Valentine store with gifts, jewels, cards and more for your Valentines, adults and kids. Childcare provided (please reserve with Jen at jkw23@humboldt.edu or (707) 668-1848). At this fun community event you can bid on dinners, parties, outings, fabulous goods and services, original art, quilts, and much more. There are 130 items for auction. The public is invited. The silent auction closings are at 5:15 p.m., 5:45 p.m., and 6:30 p.m. Then, the live auction begins at 6:45 p.m. with thespian Mack Owen, auctioneer. Funds raised at this auction will empower the Humboldt UU Fellowship to continue carrying out its compassionate, life-enhancing, justice seeking purpose in our region.

Learn about remote refuges at annual Audubon banquet

REDWOOD REGION AUDUBON SOCIETY
ARCATA — Redwood Region Audubon Society will hold its Annual Banquet and Silent Auction on Saturday, Feb. 17 at 5:30 p.m. Doug Forsell, retired U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service biologist, will give a fascinating presentation titled "Howland, Baker, and Jarvis Islands: Our Most Remote National Wildlife Refuges."

The banquet will be held at the D Street Neighborhood Center at 13th and D streets in Arcata. Social hour begins at 5:30 p.m. and dinner at 6:30 p.m. Meat and veggie options will be offered by Brett Shuler Fine Catering. Tickets are priced on a sliding scale from $40 to $60. To reserve, send a check made out to RRAS to P.O. Box 1054, Eureka, CA 95502, email gary@jacobycreek.net with Banquet in the subject line, or call (707) 496-6581. The last day to make reservations is Feb. 15.

The refuges of Howland, Baker, and Jarvis islands, which Forsell managed in the 1980s, lie within 100 miles of the equator in the Central Pacific Ocean, and are separated by over 1,100 miles of uninterrupted ocean. Throughout the past 150 years, a couple of million seabirds have managed to nest there despite many man-made hazards such as rats, cats, invasive plants and contaminants.

The islands are of historical interest, playing a strategic role in WWII, and later being subjected to biological and chemical warfare testing. Forsell will talk about the natural history of the terrestrial wildlife, as well as the beautiful marine life of the refuges.

Sax & romantic works at Eureka Symphony

EUREKA SYMPHONY
EUREKA — Saxophone and classical music are not often mentioned in the same breath, but this year's Eureka Symphony annual chamber music benefit will feature special guest Scott Seaton on the saxophone, in addition to chamber music trio favorites Terrie Baune, violin, Carol Jacobson, cello and John Chernoff, piano. The benefit concert, co-sponsored by the Eureka Woman's Club, is on Sunday, Feb. 11 at 3 p.m. at the Eureka Woman's Club, 1531 J St. in Eureka.

This year's concert will feature two romantic works, Camille Saint-Saens' Piano Trio #1 in F major and Johannes Brahms' Piano Trio #1 in B major, plus Cantilene et Danse for violin, saxophone and piano by Marc Eychenne.

Camille Saint-Saens was one of the great French Romantic composers, a child prodigy who lived well into his eighties and worked as a church organist and composer. His first piano trio is an excellent example of his work, showing his sparkling, dry wit and his romantic depth.

Considered by many musicians to be the consummate German composer of the Romantic era, the chamber music of Johannes Brahms is immensely satisfying to perform and beautiful to listen to. The B Major Trio is an early work that Brahms revisited late in his life and reworked into a mature masterpiece.

Marc Eychenne was born in Algeria in 1933, but later worked as a composer in France. His Cantilene et Danse features the saxophone, an instrument typically heard in popular genres but one that blends wonderfully with the classical combination of violin and piano. Special guest Scott Seaton, the conductor and Music Director of the North State Symphony and the Veridian Symphony, is a fabulous sax player and a delightful addition to this concert.

The performers will talk about the pieces from the stage and refreshments will be available at intermis-

This annual chamber music concert is a major benefit for the Eureka Symphony with all proceeds going towards supporting the symphony's ongoing music programs.

For ticket information visit the eurekasymphony.org or call (707) 845-3655. This benefit concert typically sells out, purchasing tickets early is recommended.

CONCERT AT THE GOAT Los Angeles-based performer and songwriter Dent May will be performing at Richard's Goat Tavern and Tea Room in Arcata on the evening of Friday, Feb. 9. The self-described "hotel bar lounge singer and aspiring daytime TV talk show host" has been recording and touring since 2009. And his latest album, "Across the Multiverse, his debut for Carpark Records, has been called "an interstellar voyage of mythic proportions." Opening for May are Canadian "disco-dream-pop" singer Moon King and Humboldt County's own multi-instrumentalist Mister Moonbeam. The show, which begins at 9 p.m., is 21 and over, and tickets are $8 in advance and $10 at the door. To purchase advance tickets, visit miniplex.ticketleap.com/dent-may-moon-king.

MCKINLEYVILLE BOOK SALE On Saturday, Feb. 10 from 1 to 4 p.m. the Friends of the McKinleyville Library will be holding its monthly Used Book Sale and celebrating National Library Lovers' Month with an entertaining collection of books about Love and Romance. As Valentine's Day is also fast approaching, the Friends will have a store-wide, half-price sale on all romance novels. For more fun, come check out their newly-expanded "Odd Ball Books" section for some interesting, eclectic reading. As usual, there will be a wide selection of fiction options such as mystery, fantasy, classics, and popular fiction -- available in both paperback and hard cover. Non-fiction choices include, but are not limited to, books about self-help, healthcare, parenting, biographies, adventure, cooking, history and crafts. There will also be a $2/bag sidewalk sale in front of the store. Look for the red and white BOOK SALE sign near the totem pole in the McKinleyville Shopping Center. All proceeds support programs and projects of the McKinleyville Library.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF LONNY DAVID BREMER

CASE NO.: PR180006
To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of: LONNY DAVID BREMER
"Petition for Probate has been filed by: CHRISTINE DANDERS in the Superior Court of California, County of Humboldt.
The Petition for Probate requests that: CHRISTINE DANDERS be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

The petition requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take any actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.
A hearing on the petition will be held in this court as follows:
Date: FEB. 15, 2018
Time: 2:00 PM
Dept.: 4
Address of court: Superior Court of California, County of Humboldt, 825 Fifth Street, Eureka, CA, 95501.
If you object to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.
If you are a creditor or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code. Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.
You may examine the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a formal Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

Spice up your life with Pepper, get Jazzy

The shelter is still so full, but these nice sunny days are good for visitors to the shelter. I know we need the rain, but meeting a wet dog isn't as good a start for potential adopters!

Did you know the shelter is open late on Tuesdays and Thursdays? Each week we are seeing the lengthening of the days, and pretty soon it will be staying light all the way till 7, when the shelter closes. Come on by after work!

There are all kinds of dogs available for adoption at the shelter, though the perception that they are all Pit Bulls continues. The shelter population reflects the dog population in Humboldt County and it does have a large number of Pit Bulls.

I would like to say once again that the dogs that are put up for adoption are temperament tested in several areas before they are made available. They need to pass tests for friendliness to people and other dogs, as well as being willing to share their food and their toys.

Certainly some dogs pass with higher scores than others, but breed is not usually a factor. Some of our best adoption ambassadors over the years have been big-headed Pit Bulls!

One of my current favorites is Pepper, a 2-year-old male Pittie mix. He is one of our go-to dogs for helping with dog introductions. He is always happy to meet a new dog and seems skilled at adjusting his enthusiasm to the needs of the other dog. Last week he was able to accompany me to a Sunday afternoon dog class where my plan was to get some photos of the other dogs attending.

We had a few things to do first and arrived after class had started. He strolled in very calmly and was happy to stay by my side while the other dogs went through their paces. When we had a turn to run the exercise for loose leash heeling, he did very well and was nicely focused.

Pepper likes his treats and is happy to learn new tricks for treats, but seems to be equally motivated by just making his person happy. I had him sit by my car at the end while I dug for the car keys. I noticed how well-behaved he was and asked him to stay while I backed away. He didn't budge until I returned and gave him the go-ahead to hop in the car! He was also very good riding in the car. We had a great time together and I am confident he would make a great companion for someone. Pepper is neutered, micro-chipped and current on vaccinations. He does fine with small dogs but would do better in a home without cats or rabbits as they are a little too interesting to him. Come meet Pepper today and let him show you how good a dog a Pit Bull can be!

Another dog from the shelter who got to go to class last week is our girl Jazzy.

Jazzy is a 1-year-old female mixed breed dog. She is listed as a German Shepherd mix, but it's hard to tell what her background might be. She is tall and lanky with a lovely soft coat in shades of gold. Jazzy would benefit from getting out of the shelter and into a home where she could receive consistent training. She gets tired of her small kennel and is very excited to get out with the volunteers for a walk and play time. She did great at dog class, demonstrating that just getting away from the shelter for a few hours and focusing on some training makes all the difference for these dogs. She was a good student and enjoyed meeting the other dogs. Jazzy loves to play and would make a good second dog for a home with another dog already in residence.

Jazzy is a nice dog that is easy to overlook while walking by the kennels, but shows her sweet side once out in the yard. It can be confusing to some of the shelter dogs when they are locked up for twenty three hours a day and then have to pack all of their fun into that other half an hour or so. A home situation is much easier for them to adjust to. Jazzy is spayed, microchipped and current on her vaccinations.

Both of these dogs are adoptable from the Humboldt County Animal Shelter, located at 908 Lycoming Ave. in McKinleyville near the airport. Information about the adoptable dogs is available at petharbor.com or by calling (707) 840-9132. Every adopted dog helps to save two lives – the dog adopted and the one who needs that kennel space to be saved. Thank you for considering a shelter or rescue adoption!

CALL FOR ENTRIES Humboldt State University's Humboldt Int'l Film Fest announces the call-to-entry for local films for the 51st festival, scheduled on April 18-21 at the renovated Minor Theatre in Arcata. The deadline to enter is midnight Feb. 28. The discount entry fee is $10 for Humboldt County residents and is free for all HSU students and alumni. Entry information is at hsufilmfestival.com. Contact is (707) 826-4113 and filmfest@humboldt.edu.

LOCAL FROG TALK On Friday, Feb. 16, Ellin Beltz will speak about local frogs, sharing her passion for those small, secretive creatures. This free public lecture, starting at 7:30 p.m. at the Arcata Marsh Interpretive Center, is sponsored by Friends of the Arcata Marsh. A "geological botanist," Beltz holds degrees in biology and geology and spent much of her professional life in the Chicago area, until she moved to Humboldt County in 2001. She authored a book on frogs in 2005, with over 40,000 copies in print. Ellin, who has a nationwide reputation as an expert on these small, slimy, and hoppy beings, has given presentations about frogs all over the country and county. For more information or to guarantee a seat, call (707) 826-2359.

Jazz | Don't miss this concert

ry Moore's career. He went to Arcata High School for his senior year, earned a bachelor's degree from Humboldt State in music education and then taught school in McKinleyville, Trinidad and Orick.

"After 11 years I decided I needed more education," he said. Moore, with the encouragement of the late Charlie Moon, went to the Eastman School of Music in Rochester and earned a master's degree, eventually earning his doctorate in Music Education with an emphasis in ethnomusicology from Kent State University. He taught at College of the Redwoods for 35 years.

And he performed. As a young pianist, Moore played such nightspots as the Vance Log Cabin in Eureka and The Keg in Arcata. He still plays and arranges jazz and enjoys his performances with Arrington in the Bay Area.

Arrington, from a prominent musical family in New York, is well known for his skill in creating intimate and intense moods in his vocal stylings.

Don't miss this concert! Westhaven Center for the Arts is located at 501 S. Westhaven Drive, two miles south of Trinidad. The concert will start at 7:30 p.m. but try to get there early to have a chance to watch those famous fingers on the ivories. For more information, call 677-9493 or visit westhavencenters.org.
